

View this email in your browser

Wellesley Green Schools January 29th, 2018 Newsletter

Please forward to anyone who might be interested! They can subscribe here.

Wellesley Green Schools

SUMMIT 2018

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13 9AM TO 11AM

- Join us to discover innovative district-wide, town/government initiatives!
- Keynote speaker, Patrick Belmont, Change is Simple: dedicated to instilling lifelong social & environmental responsibility in children via experiential, project-based, & curriculum-based learning that inspires critical thinking & action for healthy people, planet & community.
- Wellesley remains one of the top green communities in the US -- Wellesley Green Schools empowers our kids, families, & schools to lead sustainable, proactive lives.
- Light refreshments will be served. Free & open to the public!

WELLESLEY FREE LIBRARY, WAKELIN ROOM
530 WASHINGTON ST, WELLESLEY, MA, 02482

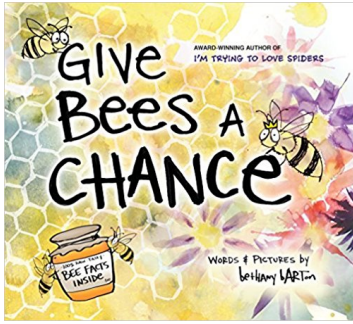

sustainablewellesley.com

Mark your calendars for the Wellesley Green Schools Summit! Open to the public and featuring a keynote speaker from Change Is Simple, the Summit will take place on Tuesday, February 13th from 9-11 a.m. at the Wellesley Free Library in the Wakelin Room.

Spend an engaging morning with like-minded environmentalists focusing on what we can do, and leave refreshed and inspired! ALL ARE WELCOME.

Green Book Rec: Give Bees a Chance by Bethany Barton

Bees sting and make honey, but did you also know that honeybees have eyes on their head and sometimes communicate by dancing? Author-illustrator Bethany Barton attempts to convince even the most skeptical bee fan why bees are special and worthy of love in Give Bees a Chance. Hopefully after reading this book, kids and you will appreciate bees' importance to our planet, by helping plants grow fruits and vegetables. Also worth checking out if you haven't already is Barton's first book, I'm Trying to Love Spiders.

Thanks to Robin Wechsler for the book rec and write up!

RECIPE: Want to pack a waste free snack? Try making your own granola bars and sending them wrapped in a napkin!

Have Green Photos or News to Share? E-mail it to Kelly Caiazzo with permission to share.

Share

Tweet

Forward

It is easy being green!

Thanks for signing up for our newsletter for green tips and updates on our green school initiatives.

Copyright © 2018 Wellesley Green Schools, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.

MailChimp